

Name: The Spartan

Apparent Age: 25

Character:

The ultimate lone warrior.

The Spartan is a man of courage and honour, who finds his purpose in life in the heat of battle. Orphaned at birth, and brought up in the Spartan military way of life, he quickly became an indispensable asset to the Spartan army. Befriended by two brothers, Castor and Pollux, the Spartan leads his Spartan allies into battle with valor and bravery.

He believes in the Spartan ideals of discipline, courage, and a martial life, and will uphold these principles until the end.

Name: Castor

Apparent Age: 23

Character:

The Spartan's brave and ever present sidekick

Courageous and strong, Castor has been the Spartan's closest friend since their first days in training. Though less reckless and more reliable than his twin brother Pollux; he still relishes combat as much as any Spartan. Destined to lead Castor is a true Spartan - faithful to his King and his people, he will fight to the death to uphold the Spartan way.

Name: Spartan Hoplite

Character:

Sparta's first line of defense.

Armed with 6-foot long spears the Hoplites form a formidable force against any charging enemy.

Warriors since birth, the hoplites have proved beyond measure their strength and worth to the Spartan army. Brave enough to enter battle with no shield, they use their spear aggressively and rapidly from a distance to devastate their foes. Though protected only by a leather corslet and a bronze helmet, these fighters know no fear and find their destiny on the battlefield.

Name: Spartan Swordsman

Character:

Sparta's most lethal warriors.

Spartan Swordsmen are tough, fearless, and blessed with warrior skill; they will defend Sparta until the end.

Trained in melee combat since childhood, all these men know are aggression and fighting for their great nation. Known for their defensive stances and tactical use of shields, the Swordsmen will strategically surround weakened enemies and ferociously attack them in turn. The enemy has little chance of escape and no possibility of mercy.

Name: Spartan Archer

Character:

Sparta's fearsome firepower.

Decimating the foe before the battle has even begun these highly skilled individuals launch devastating missile attacks against entire ranks of enemies.

Archers wield ranged, accurate bows, and need little protection from armour as they engage in combat from the edge of the battlefield. Launching wave upon wave of projectiles at the enemy army, their massed arrows have been known to darken the sun and spread panic and fear through the opposition. The enemies will die under a deluge of arrows.

Name: Pollux

Apparent Age: 23

Character:

The born optimist and skillful warrior.

Pollux doesn't take danger too seriously, confident in his own ability to conquer any obstacle and certain of Sparta's invincibility. Never happier than fighting alongside his brother and fellow Spartans, Pollux is the type who will take on any challenge; the bigger the better. What he lacks in brute strength he more than makes up in skill. Like any Spartan he knows no fear, and is one of Sparta's finest swordsmen.

© The Creative Assembly